Definition:

Family

In this document the word family is used when referring to a group of adults and children that care for each other. Families at School come in many forms including married couples, single parents, foster families, adopted families, extended families, dispersed families to name but a few. All these families have in common that they care for each other and their children.

Rational

We want our young people to grow up into healthy, safe and informed young people, who can make positive life choices and make a positive contribution to society. A caring and supportive Sex and Relationship Education (SRE) curriculum must support young people in developing self-confidence in preparing for the physical and the emotional changes they will encounter as they grow into adults. Young people need reassurance about their self-image, behaviour, feelings and relationships. They also need knowledge appropriate to their levels of maturity. In order to place the biological aspects of sex education covered in the science curriculum into a moral and social context we need to provide a broader, balanced Sex and Relationship Education (SRE). In the teaching of SRE the role of the school is supportive and complimentary to the role of parents, and a partnership needs to be entered into with parents.

This policy has been written so that parents, carers and staff are clear about the statutory requirements regarding SRE education, so that pupils receive their educational entitlement. Statutory documents and guidance are listed in Appendix B. Parents have been consulted during the review of this policy. The teaching of SRE will be taught as part of our Personal, Social and Health Education (PSHE) and the Science curriculum.

Aims of Sex and Relationship Education

At School SRE aims to :

- Be appropriate to the age and maturity of the child. Common starting levels cannot be assumed.
- Be respectful and sensitive to our culturally diverse community.
- Answer pupils' questions honestly and sensitively.
- Teach factual knowledge and encourage the exploration of facts.
- Promote an understanding of a range of family groups including: marriage (mixed or same sex), long- term partnerships (mixed or same sex), single parent families (male or female), and fostered and adopted families.
- Examine opinions and concepts and encourage discussion.
- Encourage awareness, respect and responsibility for oneself and others.
- Enable pupils to develop positive relationships with others and the ability to communicate effectively.
- Enable pupils to protect themselves and ask for help and support.
- Give an understanding of the importance of personal hygiene
- Prepare pupils for puberty and to recognise that individuals develop at different times.
- Enable pupils to be able to name parts of the body and describe how their bodies work
- Give pupils an understanding of reproduction and sexual development.

Like other areas of health education, sex education is concerned not only with cognitive development but affective development (emotional development).

Organisation of Sex and relationship Education

The class teacher will deliver the taught curriculum. Aspects of SRE may be addressed in other curriculum areas such as RE, Science and Literacy.

Delivery is through the planned PSHE scheme of work. Some aspects of SRE will be taught as discreet topics and others areas will be taught as part of the Science curriculum.

The content of the SRE Curriculum is outlined within Appendix A

A range of teaching styles will be employed, to encourage pupil participation, so that pupils can discuss and reflect on ideas and content, whilst developing their communication skills.

Single sex groups may be used when addressing aspects of puberty at years 4, 5 and 6.

Where appropriate a male member of staff may be asked to discuss issues with the boys.

Videos from the Channel 4 living and growing series will be used to support the teaching of SRE in year 2,3,4,5 and 6.

Parents will be informed when these videos are to be shown and invited into view them.

The school nurse might be asked to support the teaching of puberty to both boys and girls.

Procedures for withdrawal from Sex and Relationship Education

Pupils cannot be withdrawn for any teaching that is part of the National curriculum Science order as detailed below and identified in the Programme of Study Appendix A

Key Stage 1	Key Stage 2
Animals, including humans, move, feed, grow, use their senses and reproduce Children should recognise and name the main external parts of the human body. That humans can produce offspring and these grow into adults Children should recognise similarities and differences between themselves and others and treat others with sensitivity.	In addition to KS1 Life processes common to humans include nutrition, growth and reproduction The main stages of the human lifecycle

However parents can withdraw their child from the parts of the sex and relationship education that fall outside of the National curriculum. Any parents wishing to withdraw their child should discuss this with the class teacher. Following discussion parents may wish to withdraw their child from specific aspects of SRE curriculum and they should put this in writing to the Headteacher.

Assessment and Special Educational needs

Teachers will have a scheme of work to support the delivery of SRE. Teachers will be responsible for assessing where their children are both in knowledge and maturity and match learning opportunities to their individual needs. The scheme of work provides clear learning and objectives and the class teacher should assess against these. The scheme is planned to ensure progress and it is the responsibility of the class teacher to plan so that the scheme is fully delivered. Pupils whose needs mean that they will have difficulties with discussions and work will need supporting so that they can access and fully understand the curriculum. Further advice can be sourced from the SENCO and PSHCE co-ordinator.

Staff professional development

Staff will need ongoing professional development to ensure they can deliver the contents of this policy.

Confidentiality

See Confidentiality and Child Protection policy It is important that for the effective teaching of SRE there must be a trusting relationship between the class teacher and pupils, but as outlined in our confidentiality policy it is important for pupils and parents to understand that staff cannot maintain confidentiality. Any concerns staff may have should be discussed immediately with the designated Child Protection Officer (Headteacher). The safety of our children is a paramount concern and the school is legally obliged to refer concerns regarding child protection issues, including sexual abuse to other agencies such as social services.

Answering difficult Questions

All teachers are encouraged to use a question and answer box where pupils can ask questions anonymously. This provides staff time to prepare suitable responses. Staff will answer questions in line with the year groups SRE learning intentions. If a child asked explicit or non-age appropriate questions the teachers will suggest that they are discussed with an adult at home or someone a child trusts.

Harassment and Bullying

Pupils come from a variety of backgrounds, cultures and families and all are entitled to learn in a supportive environment free from fear. Some pupils use terms such as 'gay' 'batty boy' and 'lesbian', other sexual language and other street slang as a way to harass other pupils. This is unacceptable and will be dealt with as any other form of harassment, through the school behaviour policy.
